To Whom It May Concern,

The ACME Panel Company is a greatly appreciated supporter of Almost Heaven Habitat for Humanity's work in eastern West Virginia. We have used ACME's structurally insulated panels (SIPs) for several year on over a dozen Habitat for Humanity homes. Because we have used SIPs in our partner families' houses, it has greatly reduced the total energy needs of each household. This directly translates into lower utility costs and increased financial stability for each of our partner families.

From the beginning of our partnership ACME has gone above and beyond in providing a holistic and supportive customer service experience. Whenever a technical question arises ACME promptly and thoroughly responds with in-depth assistance and care, far exceeding our expectations.

The ACME Panel Company's intentional and caring approach is easily visible in their business relationships. Our partnership is saving our partner families money, and in turn helping them re-invest in their own lives. If you are considering purchasing SIPs from ACME Panel, you will not be disappointed.

Sincerely,

Michelle L. Connor
